Eligibility	Anyone who has physical custody of a child and needs help establishing the identity of the father of the child, establishing a child support order or collection of current or past-due child support is eligible to receive child support services. This includes a parent who is separated from his or her spouse even if no divorce action has been filed. A man who believes he is the biological father of a child born out of wedlock may also apply for services.
Steps	An application for child support services is required. The application can be obtained from your local child support office (see below), by applying and submitting through the KCSI website (CSWS home page), or you can complete the application on the internet. Once the application obtained from the local child support office or from the internet has been completed, it then has to be either hand-delivered or mailed to your local child support office. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Apply in-person at Local Office (see below). • Apply on-line... https://csws.chfs.ky.gov/csws/general/application/appstart.aspx

Other Information	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Child support is a payment made by a noncustodial parent for the care of his or her child. The Kentucky Child Support Program refers to a parent who does not have physical custody of a child(ren) as the noncustodial parent (NCP). • There are many enforcement remedies that can be used to enforce and collect a child support obligation. The type of action chosen depends on the circumstances of the case. Some of the remedies that Child Support Enforcement can use to enforce a child support order are: court action resulting in jail time, interception of tax refund, passport denial, liens, driver's, professional/occupational or wildlife (hunting/fishing) license revocation/denial, levying financial institution (bank) accounts, withholding of unemployment benefits. • Click here for more Frequently Asked Questions. • Child support enforcement services are automatically provided to current and former recipients of K-TAP and public medical assistance. Your K-TAP caseworker will refer your case to the appropriate child support office. • Child support payments can be made on-line... http://csws.chfs.ky.gov/csws/
